SOCIAL INNOVATION PROJECT RAISES FUNDS FOR INTERNATIONAL CHARITIES

Pearson College UWC Student project "PCGROWceries" to distribute funds this summer.

Metchosin, BC – PCGROWceries, a student-led initiative, raised nearly $1,500 in profits through its online store, that will be donated this summer to charities including Ursuline Creche Home for Children in Malta, Rainbow Recycling Project in South Africa, and Sanctuary of the Marine Turtle of Michoacán in Mexico.

PCGROWceries' modest e-commerce site allowed students to order grocery items that were conveniently delivered right to their rooms, while a small commission charged on every order was collected into the PCGROWceries Charity Fund to be distributed to charitable organizations in the organizers' home countries. Pooling multiple orders through a web interface eliminates the time, money and energy needed for long bus trips to pick up supplies, plus adding the benefit of supporting worthy causes worldwide.

Perhaps equally valuable was the learning experience PCGROWceries provided for its organizers: Steve Farrugia (YR 43/2018, Malta), explains to his fellow students, "In the end, this business was not about us or about you, but about the people around the globe who struggle to get by. Due to your support we have raised enough funds to deliver significant change to communities across the world."

PCGROWceries, created and supported by the Social Innovation CAS is a brilliant example of how students move their lessons beyond the classroom and realize their power and potential as change-makers.
